“ I had the honor of having Crystal as a patient when she first got diagnosed and again during her last stay. I admired how her family stood by her through her long chemo stays. I was saddened and shocked to find out she passed. She lit up when you asked her about her children and her job. We often don't get to see what our patients look like before their cancer takes over, physically and mentally. I can confidently say Crystal's personality and will to fight, remained till the end. I pray for comfort in this time for her family and friends. Especially her husband, son, and mother who showed her unwavering love and support. ❤️👍

With love,
