“ I met Kevin back in 1986, the same time I met by future hubby Brian...next thing I knew Brian and I were dating, Kevin and Brian was getting an apartment together off base...we had some great times..Kevin was the real deal, a very genuine warm person..we had many “debates” over cooking, all in good fun!!! Several years ago Kevin stopped by and spent some time visiting with us as he was driving across country, it was like old times again !!! Kevin's name will always come up in a memory, he's part of our history. Angel may our blessed SAVIOR continue to comfort you and Heather during this difficult time. We are praying for you both!!

“ I was fortunate to work with Kevin at A&A, I would get there every morning about 6:30 am every morning, Kevin wasn't a morning person like myself so he wasn't too talkative first thing but if you got him talking about fishing or hunting it would be at least an hour conversation. The more i got to know Kevin i found out he also was in the Air Force we spent a lot of time telling stories of the places we had been and some of the things we did while serving. Kevin will be truly missed not just as a coworker but as a friend.

“ I was fortunate to work with Kevin at A&A, every morning I would walk into dispatch office and ask Kevin well how does it look today and Kevin's response would be not good, this went on for a few weeks until I walked in one morning and told Kevin I don't care how bad it looks lie to me and tell me things look great no problems, the next morning before I could say anything he said do you want the truth or a lie lol. Kevin would always have a story for me Monday morning depending on what season it was hunting or fishing, he would show me pictures of the deer he got and the fish he caught, loved to listen to him tell his stories, both of was in the Air Force and would tell each stories of places and things we had done while we were in the service. Glad I got to know him and became a great friend will be greatly missed

“ I've only had 2 friends in life who I thought of as a brother, Kevin was one. After meeting him in the summer of '84 while I was in the Air Force at Altus we spent over 2 years the best of friends. Even after he got his orders to another base, I made a couple trips to Sheppard where he was TDY so we could play catch-up. There's hundreds of stories I could share but the one that always comes to mind is his last day at Altus. With the sun setting we swapped out his truck transmission. In the dark and lacking a jack, he laid on my legs and wrestled the replacement onto his chest, then I bent my legs lifting him up while he bolted it in. Thanks for some of the best memories ever Kevin, and rest in peace brother. --- Tim Henderson

“ I remember the first time I went out to Oklahoma, there was an issue with my flights and I ended up arriving a day later than planned. Kevin and Heather came to pick me up and on the way back we had to drop her off at school, so it was just me and him for the rest of the ride. I'd only met him a handful of time before this and he'd always seemed a little stoic and spook, so I was a little awkward to say the least. Then he turned off onto a smaller road with the simple explanation of taking the longer way to he could show me the baby buffaloes because the were 'cute and fluffy, like caramel'. He was right, they were absolutely adorable and while we gushed over them as we slowly drove past I understood what a great guy he was and I could see my best friend in him. Lets also not forget the time I went camping with them and he and I got up early to go fishing. As I cast my line out he looked over at me and laughed as he asked "Girl, who taught you how to cast?" I still switch hands when casting my line, no matter how hard he tried to teach me otherwise, but I'll always think of him when I do it.

“ He was like a father to me. Idk what to say except that he taught me self confidence in what I want and that you have to work for it to actually get it. One memory that made laugh to this day is when My mom made soup and he ate and his reaction was priceless the smile he gave my mom when he called pizza hut and ordered a pizza. He gave me amazing Job that taught me how to take work seriously. Thank you Dad for what you have showed me and I am going to try and play the game you loved to play. I miss you and Mom stay strong. Stay strong Heather i love you both unconditionally.

“ Kevin was an awesome man to be around. When Jeremiah and I got married one of the first trips we took was to Lindsay, OK to Kevin and Angel's house. I had not met him before that. From the moment I walked into his house and met him I was family. There was never an ounce of awkwardness or any feeling of being an outsider. I was just his sister. I love ya Kevin.
