“ I love you dad. I'm sorry you left this world too soon. I have so many fond memories of you. You taught me a lot growing up. And I have such fun memories of you. I remember you letting me put curlers in your hair and apply make up to your face. You were the prettiest Dad! I remember you telling me whenever I was about seven or eight years old not to go near that wood pile, but what did I do...I went to the wood pile like you told me not to. And I stepped on a nail. I remember you having to help hold me down for them to give me a tetanus shot. I remember filling so many 5 gallon buckets of pecans. Dad I still can't eat them. I remember one Christmas I think I was seven and at first I thought all I was getting getting was clothes for Christmas and then at the end you and mom surprised me with a Barbie dream house. I was ecstatic! I think that was the best one yet. Also remember before I got married I came down to the trailer and stayed with you for the weekend and while I was asleep I got stung by a wasp and I woke up screaming and you woke up panicked and neither of us knew what happened. I remember when the found the wasp in my bed you got so tickled your face turned red. There are so many more memories to share! Love you Dad!

That's the top one right there Dad! I remember before I got married I came down and got stung by a wasp while I was asleep and I woke you up screaming. Neither of knew what was happening. We ended up laughing. You got so tickled your face turned red after we found out it was just a wasp. I have so many fond memories. I will always cherish them! I know you'll be looking down from above. You've always been with me even when we're apart.
Your Loving Daughter,
